

Evane:

Yo Evane, where do I even begin? You know, I glaze you a lot but it's actually not glaze. I know you haven't had the easiest childhood and you led a life of sin, heavy sin, and the fact that there is almost no semblance of that past that you exhibit in your behaviour today is very encouraging. I truly respect the discipline that you have to journey with God and spending those nine days with you has definitely encouraged me to do the same. Do not get me wrong, I still slip up a lot of times but now I'm more conscious of what to do... to emulate a bit of you in terms of your quiet time and things like that.

But other than the spiritual stuff, (which of course you have emphasized, is the most important), you have been a great friend. Thank you for always being there for me and meeting me where I am. You have been so so important in my university life and like you said classes wouldn't be the same without you without the banter, the inside jokes and the laughs. I know I am not an easy person and the growth you see today is definitely something that you contributed to. I wish you all the best and continuous renewal of strength from God as you embark to do his work and continue to stay strong in the faith.

Lots of admiration and gratitude,
Justin

Elissa:

Hello, Elissa. You are one of, or in fact, the most strong woman I know. I'm not talking about physical strength here but your tenacity, especially when you set your mind to do something is very amazing. I just thank God that you are so fervent for him and your skills put to very good use to help the kingdom of God.

Thank you for being so honest and opening up during the trip and I pray that God gives you the strength and the peace to move on from that incident. I'm no stranger to incidents in terms of changing my perspective on what is right and biblical but I just wanted to encourage you that God will show you grace and he will make all things right.

Thank you for always being that person I spar with and now that we're meeting last I'll definitely miss those moments. You have been an integral part of my university life. Let's just put it that way.

In whatever you do, I wish that God will guide your path and give you the strength that you need.

Stop being so sneaky,
Justin

Bell:

Hello Belle, I am thankful for your spontaneity when it came to hanging out with E Square and I during this trip. I'm also thankful that you were willing to change your perceptions on me and not judge so fast. In response to your note, no, I'm not gonna just cut you out and yeah, we'll be friends for as long as you want.

Jokes aside, it has been a really fun nine days with you and I apologize if I was too annoying. I just wanted to say that you are a really amazing person and God knows what you go through and what you carry with you. I admire your resilience and your hasa ethic. Well, please don't push yourself too hard, ok?

Well, I wish that God grants the desires of your heart and He blesses everything you do. And I just wanted to let you know that you don't have to carry everything yourself and you have a heavenly Father who is there for you.

See you around Belle and I hope you get the internship with JP Morgan HAHA.

Stay cat-like,

Justin
